

TODAY's Winter Beauty Guide

Bobbie Thomas presents her picks for the season's best beauty trends

WINTER BEAUTY GUIDE

Winter weather can be harsh on your skin and hair, and while everyone knows that moisturizing is important, there are many new and noteworthy products that go beyond the beauty options previously available.

Whether you want the latest innovations for your face, pampering products for your body, or the most hyped-about haircare, Bobbie Thomas, our Today Style Editor and author of the Buzz for In Touch Weekly, is here to highlight what's hot this season.

TODAY Style Editor Bobbie Thomas

Sipping sensations

The saying goes, "you are what you eat." But at least two brands believe that what you drink is destined to make a difference, too. Makers claim that by dropping a BeautyScoop supplement into your beverage once a day for three weeks, you'll have brighter skin and a better overall appearance ($75; beautyscoop.com). And Oz water is infused with Himalayan crystal salt, which is said to help replenish the body's natural minerals and soften skin ($28 per case; ozgarcia.com).

Updated: 11:00 a.m. ET Jan. 24, 2008

© 2008 MSNBC.com

URL: http://today.msnbc.msn.com/id/22808988/?pg=10#TDY_Bobbie_WinterBeauty